

1. Which of the following is likely to occur due to the increase of carbon dioxide levels in the atmosphere?
- (a) oceans cool and absorb less carbon dioxide from the atmosphere
 - (b) it will be more difficult for crustaceans to construct their shells
 - (c) the pH of oceans will increase, becoming more acidic
 - (d) the availability of carbonate ions to marine organisms will increase