

7. The imposition of a tariff on food imported into Australia will result in
- (a) lower domestic food prices and greater choice of food options in Australia.
 - (b) a reallocation of resources towards more competitive unprotected industries.
 - (c) an increase in domestic food production and rising employment levels in this sector.
 - (d) a decrease in government revenue.